My Sweet Summer Reading Log

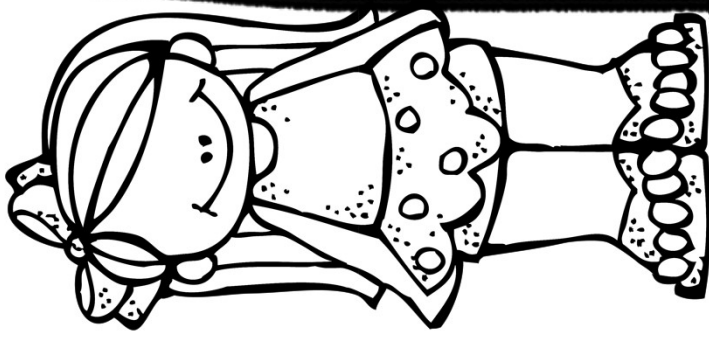

Keep track of all your summer reading. Every time you read for 15 minutes, color in an ice cream cone.

Ideas For Studying Sight Words At Home

The following pages include flashcards that you can cut apart and use for studying sight words at home. Sight word practice doesn't have to be boring. There are many fun and active ways to practice these words right at home. Here are just a few ideas:

- Hide a small number of flashcards around your house. Have a mom or dad call out words for you to find and return to them.
- Tape sight words cards around your house.. Grab a piece of paper and 'write the room.' When you are done, read your paper to an adult.
- Select a few words that you are having trouble remembering. Rainbow write them. (Sheet included in the packet)
- Use a bingo sheet included in this packet. Write one sight word in each box. Select those sight word cards plus 15-20 more. Have a parent call out the words and place a marker on each on that matches. When you get 'bingo,' read your words back to the caller.
- practice writing your sight words with a stick in the sand, with washable crayons in the tub or with finger paints.
- Write your words with a white crayon on paper (or have an adult do it) and then use watercolors to 'reveal' your hidden words.
- Write your words on small Dixie cups. Line your cups up on a fence or ledge outside. Have someone call out a words. Use a water gun, light saber or rubber band to see if you can knock the cup with the correct word off the ledge. (Inside your house you can always use the back of a couch-but no squirt gun!)
- Line several of the flashcard words up in a line on the floor or on a table. Take a small car and drive across the sight words, saying the words as you go. Use a small timer to see how many words you can drive across in a minute.
- Select 10-15 sight word flashcards. Lay them on the floor facedown. Toss a small bean bag or (if you're outside, a small rock would work) onto one of the cards. Turn it over and read it. If you read it correctly, you get to keep the card. This is a fun game to play with a friend.

Rainbow Write

Sight Word Summer Bingo

Name: _____

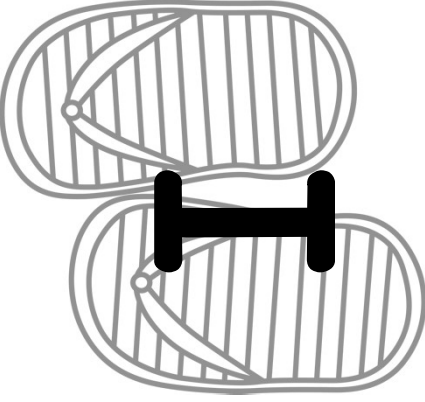

Choose a different sight word and write it in the bingo spaces below. Select the same flash cards as the words you wrote on your bingo board plus 15-20 more. Have someone call out the words. Mark your bingo board when you have a match. Call out bingo when you have five across, diagonally or up and down.
